PROEM.

N a country unknown to their ancestors, under a strange sky, on the shore of the inland ocean where the magic of man had created the Great White City upon the dunes of sand; where the Highlands of Bonnie Scotland had become the Lowlands of a new world; where the heather had never bloomed and the pibroch never sounded; where the nations came together and the past but cast a greater glory on the future, the Clan MacKinlay gathered. Not in the century and a half since the battle of Culloden scattered the Scottish Clans had the Clan MacKinlav met. In different dress, with strange words of welcome, owning allegiance to states and principalities unborn when night drew its curtain over that battle field near Inverness, they met to honor the memory of their fathers, to gather and weave together the tangled and broken threads of their ancestry, to draw inspiration and strength for life's battles from the glorious history of their past. They came, the old and young, from many lands and of many minds. That day hand clasped hand and eve looked into eve and then they parted.

Fate has traced out many a pathway
For their hurrying, wayward feet,
And mayhap by hill or valley
No two steps of theirs may meet, but the memory of that day will linger and brighten and brighten as life steals away.

What was done-is it not written?

RESOLUTIONS.

Your committee on Resolutions beg leave to report as follows:

RESOLVED: that the hearty thanks of the Clan MacKinlay be tendered the State of Kansas for its kindness and hospitality in granting us the use of its building for the meetings of the Clan and to the Governor of that state for his cordial address of welcome.

That the thanks of the Clan be most gratefully tendered to Dr. L. D. McKinley of Topeka, Kansas, for his foresight in conceiving the idea and plan of this gathering and for his industry and zeal in carrying out so very well the many details necessary to its success and for the great pleasure it has afforded us all in forming the acquaintance of one another.

That the hearty thanks of the Clan be conveyed to the Modoc Club of Topeka, Kansas, for its delightful music which has contributed so much to our enjoyment and to the press for its kindness in many ways shown us.

That the matter of calling the next meeting of the Clan be left to the good judgment of our Chieftain and that we respectfully suggest that the same be not deferred for a longer period than one year, and the place of the same made as convenient for the Clan as possible and that power is hereby given the Chieftain to appoint such state and subordinate Chiefs as he may deem advisable or any other officers necessary to carry out the objects of the Clan and that we further suggest the advisability of frequent correspondence and visits between the members of the Clan with a view to the developement of our acquaintances and friendships.

That we recall with pride the land of our forefathers, dear old Scotland, and all her splendid battles for personal liberty and her grand contributions to the statesmanship, literature and material welfare not only of Scotland but of almost every civilized country of the world.

ed and approved and the committees discharged. By a rising vote Dr. L. D. McKinley of Topeka, Kansas, the chairman, was elected Chief of the Clan, Judge Goodwin putting the question before the Clan. An address of thanks was made by the Chief, after which letters were read from Hon. Wm. G. Rose, ex-mayor of Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. J. H. Livingston of Chicago, Mrs. Carrie McKinley Neal of Parkersburg, W. Va., and Miss Helen McKinley of Canton, Ohio. Then amid music and words of farewell the first gathering of the Clan MacKinlay on this side of the ocean and the first reunion since the dismemberment of the Scottish Clans in 1746 came to an end.

MARIE B. McKINLAY,

CHIEF,

SECRETARY,

Topeka, Kansas.

Paris, Illinois.-

The following report is gathered from the "CHICAGO EVENING POST," "INTER OCEAN" and "HERALD":-

GOV. McKINLEY HERE.

Comes to Attend the Clan Reunion at Jackson Park.

HE WAS LATE IN ARRIVING.

Met by the Chief from Topeka at the Grand Pacific Hotel.

"Governor William McKinley and staff arrived at the Grand Pacific Hotel this morning from Ohio to take part in the reunion of the Clan McKinlay in the Kansas State Building at the World's Fair Grounds.

The governor's train was due here at 7:30 a.m., and at 8 o'clock Dr. L. D. McKinley of Kansas, Chief, and Judge John S. Goodwin of Chicago, Historian of the Clan, were at the hotel, accompanied by several members of the Clan, to greet the distinguished gnest on his arrival.

It was nearly 10 o'clock before Governor McKinley walked briskly in through the Jackson Street entrance to the hotel and appended his name in bold characters to the register.

The Governor of Ohio never looked better physically. His step is elastic, his eye bright and there is energy in his every movement. Moreover his face wears its old time genial expression and he greeted most heartily those who crowded forward to shake hands before he had lain down the pen.

The Chief of the Clan MacKinlay stepped forward and introduced himself, asking when the Clan could hope to meet the Governor at the Kansas State Building.

"I'll be with you between 12 and 1.30 if my baggage arrives in time," he replied. "No speech-making, I suppose. Just a general hand-shaking. What's that? Oh, yes, I'll cheerfully respond in an informal way. Excuse me gentlemen." And the Governor of Ohio sought the privacy of his room to efface the stains of travel and the little group melted away.

REUNION OF THE CLAN.

The reunion of the Clan MacKinlay was held in the parlors of the Kansas State Building about 11 o'clock. The Clan gathered at an early hour, and its members were eloquently we keened by Governor Lewelling on behalf of the citizens of Kansas. It was expected that Governor McKinley would be on hand to respond to this, but his late arrival necessitated a change of programme, and the business meeting of the Clan was held this morning. Its feature was a historical address by Dr. L. D. McKinley, Chief of the Clan. Chief McKinley halls from Topeka, Kansas, and besides being president of the Topeka Scottish Society, he can write M. D. after his name. On the back of his card appears this explanatory legend: "Clan MacKinlay; name in English MacKinlay or McKinley; modern Gælic, Mac an Ollamh; ancient Gælic, Mac Fhionnlaidh; arms, a stag trippant; crest, an armed arm holding a branch of olives; motto, "Not too much."

The state train conveying Governor Lewelling and state officials, Kansas World's Fair Commissioners, Kansas National Guard, under command of Adjutant General Artz: Marshall's Military Band, fifty strong: Chief McKinley and citizens of Kansas left Topeka Sunday over the Rock Island and arrived at the terminal station at the Fair Grounds Monday morning, ready for the exercises of the week.

During this morning the Clan MacKinlay were entertained by the Modoc Singing Club headed by Mildred Hendricks Hodge, soloist, and this afternoon Governor McKinley was received informally at the Kansas State Building, and after a graceful impromptu speech the members of the Clan indulged in an informal reception which lasted until 5 p. m."—Post,

FIRST IN CENTURIES.

Reunion Effected in the Kansas Fair Building.

Ohio's Chief Executive Delivers an Address and Receives an Ovation.

Governor Lewelling of Kansas stepped half-way down the steps in front of the main entrance of the Kansas State Building yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock and heartily grasped the hand of a gentleman who was entering the building. The gentleman whom the Governor of Kansas had come to meet was of the average height, of solid build, was dressed in a dark Prince Albert suit and wore a silk hat. His complexion was perhaps a little sallow, but the outline of the features was in a classic mold that has been permanently impressed on the American mind. A crowd had followed him from Mount Vernon station and kept growing behind him as he approached the Kansas building. Governor Lewelling led him, the crowd/pressing close behind, to a large assembly-room upstairs. A good looking young lady was sitting at the table. The two were introduced, bowing and shaking hands seemingly to the crowd as two actors in a pantonime.

"Governor," said the young lady, addressing the gentleman to whom she had been introduced, "you spell the last syllable of your name 'ley' and I spell mine 'lay.'"

"Yes," he replied, "your ancestors of the McKinley clan came to this country directly from Scotland, while mine came from the North of Ireland, but we are all of the same stock."

They were both members of the Clan McKinley, which was having its first gathering since the battle of Culloden in 1746. He was Governor William McKinley of Ohio, and she Miss Marie B. McKinley of Paris, Ill.

ONLY A FEW OF THEM LEFT.

As nearly as can be ascertained there are only a few hundred adult descendants of the Clan McKinley, which, sharing a common fate with so many other Scottish clans was dissipated at the famous battle of Culloden and scattered broadcast over the earth.

There were fifty McKinleys gathered yesterday for the purpose of reorganizing their clan and electing their chieftain.

The meeting had been advertised for 10 o'clock in the morning and arrangements had been made on the outside for Governor McKinley to make an address. But he telegraphed that he could not be on hand until the afternoon.

When Dr. L. D. McKinley, of Topeka, who was largely instrumental in bringing the clan together, arrived, fifteen minutes late, he expressed great surprise at finding so many present. He passed a few words of compliment over the heads of the Clan and then introduced Governor Lewelling, who welcomed the Clan to the Kansas building. The Governor said it was not his habit to mix up in family affairs outside of his own, but that he was glad to be the one to tell the McKinleys to make themselves at home in the Kansas building. He said the time was when men roamed like wild beasts over hill and through valley, but in time they made shelter for themselves from the wind and storms and the home was begun; that the home had grown from this rude beginning to the place which the people of to-day call home, with its hallowed associations and tender memories, whether it be the marble palace or the cottage with the latchstring hung out. He quoted Robert Burns on home and said he supposed that the Clan McKinley had come by the process of evolution from rude beginnings in the Highlands to their present civilized state. He commended the spirit which knit them together and prophesied that there would be a time when all the nations of the earth would be bound together with clan-like ties, acknowledging the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man.

OVATION FOR McKINLEY.

The chairman next introduced Governor McKinley as a distinguished clansman. As he arose to speak the crowd cheered and applauded for several minutes, and one man yelled: "The next President of the United States." The crowd broke forth again. The Governor; looked a little annoyed, and the chairman, mounting a table, waved the people to silence as he called "This is no political meeting. We want no politics here."

Governor McKinley had prepared no address, but he said that it gave him great pleasure to meet with the large family bearing the same name and descending from the same common stock; that he had no idea it was so large. "But I take pride," said he, "in being considered worthy of membership. I do not know much about the McKinlay Clan. But what I do know is all good. I never knew of any taint in the family in Scotland or Ireland, and I never knew of any taint in the family in the United States. Our primal stock, those behind us, constituted a strong and sterling race that loved God and walked uprightly. It is for the McKinleys to continue the good name they bear. However, the present and the future is more important than the past.

"I have no formal address to make. You know I am a very busy man, and I traveled all night and most of to-day to meet and greet you here, no longer a Scottish Clan, but an American Clan."

After the Governor had finished his speech the chairman announced that business would be suspended so the members of the Clan could shake hands with Governor McKinley before he left, as he was in a hurry.

WERE ALL MCKINLAYS.

The people formed in line and came to shake him by the hand. Word got down stairs and out on the grounds that Governor McKinley was shaking hands with the people. Hundreds swarmed in at the doors. "Stop!" shouted the chairman, "you are wearing the Governor out. You are not all McKinleys; keep back."

"Yes, we are all McKinleys," shouted some one trying to get in at the door. It was estimated that the Governor shook hands with nearly 1,000 McKinleys.

At last two guards forced a way through the crowd and the Governor passing through it, waved his hat and shouted: "Good-bye; I'll see you to-morrow."

After the Governor left Dr. L. D. McKinley was chosen chieftain of the Clan and Miss Marie B. McKinlay of Paris, Ill, permanent secretary. Judge John S. Goodwin of Chicago, Historian. Dr. McKinley made a brief speech giving a history of the Clan McKinley.—Inter Ocean

ALL OF SCOTCH STOCK.

MEETING OF THE MCKINLEY CLAN.

The Governor of Ohio attends a reunion at the Kansas State Building—A Topeka Physician Elected to the Post of Chief.

A man with a Scottish east of countenance and wearing a tartan plaid searf stood at the end of a long table in the gallery of the Kansas State Building yesterday afternoon and received the congratulations of forty or fifty other Scotch-Americans. The man with the plaid searf was Dr. L. D. McKinley, of Topeka, Kan., and the rest of the party also bore the name of McKinley. They were congratulating the genial Kansan on his election as chief of the McKinley clan—the first chief since the clan was disrupted at the battle of Culloden in Scotland in 1746. Dr. McKinley has been specially active in arranging for a meeting of the clan at the world's fair after a trifling lapse in the hereditary chieftainship of nearly 150 years and his election as chief was the reward of his work.

About fifty of the McKinley family got together in the Kansas building. Governor McKinley of Ohio was there, and the others came from all parts of the United States and Canada. Some spelled their names "MacKinlay," but all claimed the same Scottish ancestry and all pointed with pride to the antiquity of their clan, which is one of the original "29" in Highland traditions.

RECORDS TO BE KEPT.

The fact that no record of the clan exists since 1746 lent an added interest to yester-day's meeting. The result of the day's reunion and deliberations was to set it on its feet again historically. Hereafter the records will be carefully preserved and chieftains will be elected for life instead of the old hereditary chieftainships.

After a preliminary business meeting yesterday morning the clan adjourned until 2 in the afternoon, when Governor McKinley was expected to meet his fellow clansmen. The afternoon meeting was a red-letter occasion for the McKinley family. The honored bearer of the family name from Ohio's gubernatorial chair was given a warm welcome. Governor Lewelling of Kansas made an introductory speech and said complimentary things about all the McKinleys he knew or ever heard about. Governor McKinley was then presented by his fellow governor, and for ten minutes the Ohio statesman laid politics aside. He said he was glad to meet so many of his own family. He had no idea before the family was sclarge. Governor McKinley said he did not know much about his ancestry, but what little he did know was good. He was also sure there was no taint on the family escutcheon, either past or present.

DESCENDED FROM STURDY STOCK.

They came from strong, earnest forefathers, men who walked uprightly in all the relations of life. He called upon the representatives of the family present to continue the good name in the future and to remember that the present and future are more important than the past. He wished for the perpetuation not of a Scottish but an American clan, devoted to liberty forever.

At the close of Governor McKinley's speech the clausmen, their wives and friends had an opportunity to shake hands with their distinguished relative. The rest of the afternoon was devoted to a business meeting and social intercourse. At the business meeting the following permanent officers were elected:

Chiet-Dr. L. D. McKinley, Topeka, Kan. Secretary and treasurer-Miss Marie B. McKinlay, Paris, Ill. Historian-Judge Goodwin, Chicago.

The historian, Judge Goodwin, is a law partner of Gen'l John C. Black, Congressmanat-large from the state of Illinois, and is a blood relative of the Ohio McKinleys. Thomas E. MacKinlay, of Ottawa, Ill., was chosen to arrange for the distribution of souvenirs. Resolutions were adopted in favor of holding the next meeting of the claim not later than one year from date, at some central point to be designated by the chief. Thanks were tendered to the Kansas commission for courtesies. The resolutions concluded with this sentiment:—

That we recall with pride the land of our forefathers, dear old Scotland, and all her splendid battles for personal liberty and her grand contribution to the statesmanship, literature and material welfare not only of Scotland, but in atmost every civilized country of the world.

REVIEW OF THE CLAN'S HISTORY.

Chief McKinley made a closing address, and gave a history of the clan as far as known. Its arms are a stag trippant, its crest an armed arm holding an olive branch and its motto, "Not too much."—Herald.

PROEM.

AST year it was sentiment—this year it is business. It is the ulterior object of the Clan to collect and publish a genealogy of the Clan MacKinlay. This means the searching of records, the copying of wills, the printing of blanks, and the employment of professional genealogists where their services will be of benefit; all of this takes cash—not a great deal, but more than any few should advance. If each member of the Clan will contribute only a small amount, proportionate to his ability, it will greatly facilitate the work. Many have helped—all can help more. There are plenty of the minutes of the first meeting left and those of both meetings will be sent on request, postage being enclosed. In the language of the day

IT IS A GOOD THING-PUSH IT ALONG.

MINUTES OF THE

GATHERING OF THE CLAN MACKINLAY,

- IN THE-

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY HALL. DETROIT, MICHIGAN, SEPT. 10. 1894.

MORNING SESSION.

The stroke of the Chief's gavel at 10:30 o'clock stilled the hum of conversation and the half a hundred stalwart members of the Clan MacKinlay who were present gave attention as the second gathering of the Clan was formally opened. Mr. Florance Eatherly, President of St. Andrew's Society, was presented by the Chief and welcomed the Clan to Detroit and to St. Andrew's Hall which the members placed unreservedly at the Clan's disposal. On behalf of the visiting Clan, the Chief made a fitting response. These pleasant preliminaries completed, the rolls of officers and of members were called. The reading of the minutes of the last meeting was dispensed with, they having been published, but were approved as published.

The deaths of Dr. John McKinley, Uhricksville, Ohio, Samuel McKinley, Jr., Los Angeles, California, and of John Ferguson, Thamesville, Ontario, were announced with fitting remarks, Dr. John McKinley had met with the Clan the year before and his sterling worth and great force of character had then impressed his strong personality upon the minds of those with whom he came in contact.

Letters of regret were read from Alexander McKinley, Clermont, Iowa; Mrs. E. McKinley, Los Angeles, California; James E. McKinley, Borden, Indiana; J. A. MacKinlay, Leith, Scotland; Rev. G. G. McKinley, Joliet, Illinois; Col. Robert L. McKinlay, Paris, Illinois; Dr. C. G. McKinley, Olathe, Kansas and from James McKinley, Miss Birdie McKinley and Mrs Sallie McKinley Fitch, of Vanceburg, Kentucky.

Following the reading of the letters, a Committee on Finance was appointed consisting of John F. McKinlay, James E. McKinlay and Dr. J. A. McKinley.

A Committee on Resolutions was thereupon appointed, consisting of John S. Goodwin, Dr. Esdras Burns McKinley and Archibald McKinlay.

Mr. W. E. W. MacKinlay, of Ottawa, Illinois, who has been devoting considerable time to researches among the Scottish and Canadian branches of the family, was introduced and read a paper, replete with information concerning the early history of the Clan, which was received with enthusiasm. After discussion of the paper just referred to, on motion of Mr. Goodwin, Mr. W. E. W. McKinlay was made Assistant Historian with the more especial field of research for data in the years preceeding 1700. On motion, the offices of Secretary and Treasurer were divided and Miss Marie B. McKinlay, of Paris, Illinois, was re-elected Secretary and Hon. John F. McKinlay, of Detroit, Michigan, was elected Treasurer.

The Committee on Finance reported that it had collected the sum of $47.50. The report of the Committee having been accepted and the Committee discharged, on motion the Clau adjourned to two p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Immediately upon reconvening at two p. m. the Committee on Resolutions made the following report:

RESOLVED: That the thanks of the Clan MacKinlay be extended to the St. Andrew's Society of Detroit for its kindness in placing the Hall of the Society, through its President Mr. F. D. Eatherly, at the disposal of the Clan for its annual Clan Gathering.

RESOLVED: That the Clan express its appreciation of the work of Clansman W. E. W. MacKinlay in preparing his interesting and valuable paper on the early history of the Clan.

RESOLVED: That the officers of the Clan, all of whom are present in their places, are entitled to the thanks of the Clansmen for their earnest and enthusiastic labors which have been so greatly conducive to this successful and pleasant meeting.

RESOLVED: That the Clan MacKinlay extend its hearty thanks to the newspapers of Detroit for courtesies received at their hands.

(Signed)

Archibald McKiulay, Dr. Esdras Burns McKinley.

Upon motion, the report of the Committee was received and approved and the Committee discharged. On motion, the Secretary was authorized to print and issue the minutes of this gathering and to accompany the same with a genealogical report by the Historian.

The Clan was addressed by Hon. Wm. M. McKinley, of Portland, Indiana; Archibald McKinlay, Chief of the Canadian branch, and others. On motion it was decided to raise the funds necessary to prosecute the work of the Clan by fixing a membership fee of one dollar and by making the annual dues one dollar. The amount which would be raised by these rates was estimated to be sufficient to pay the expense of publishing the minutes and the preliminary exercises of the Clan.

The announcement being made that the St. Andrew's Society expected to entertain the Clan in the evening with Scottish Songs, it was ascertained that, as so many of the Clansman had previously arranged to leave for their homes on the early evening trains, not a sufficient number would be present and it was therefore on motion decided to extend the thanks of the Clan to the Society for its kind offers for the entertaining of the Clan and to announce to it that the Clan was compelled with regret to forego the proffered treat. On motion the Clan adjourned its formal meeting and proceeded to the river and spent the remainder of the afternoon in a delightful trip on the water and a visit and drive through Island Park.

And thus endeth the second lesson.

Dr. L. D. McKinley,

Chief.

Marie B. McKinlay,

Secretary.

GENEALOGY.

UST as a "starter" this sketch is prepared. It makes no pretense to anything more than a preliminary, pointing out a few of the difficulties which lie in the way of your Historian. Briefly, the Clan History is this:-The earliest ancestor of whom we have record was Constantine Macduff (1), Earl of Fife, who dates from about the year A. D. 1000. His son was Alexander (2), 2nd Earl, succeeded by Constantine (3), 3d Earl. Here the line diverges, and we follow the second son of the 3d Earl, who was Seach (4), or MacIntosh. Four generations later Farquhar MacIntosh (8) was 5th Chief and left a son Angus (9), who fought at Bannochburn in 1314. Angus left a son Ian (10), who was sneceeded by his son Gilchrist (11). Then came in regular descent Shaw Mor (12), James (13), Allister Ciar MacIntosh (14), Farquhar MacIntosh (15), Donald (16), Finlay (17). This last married twice. His second wife's children were known as Farquharson. By his first wife he had four sons, the eldest William, who were called MacKinlay. Finlay (17) fell at the battle of Pinkie in 1547. For this account of the first 17 generations of the family we are indebted to W. E. W. MacKinlay, Assistant Historian. The descendants of Finlay (17) settled at "The Annie" (Gaelic for "The Ford of the Stag") near Callander, Perthshire, Scotland about A. D. 1600. One of these was the ancestor of John MacKinlay, born about 1645 at The Annie. This John had three sons, the eldest, Daniel, born 1669; the second, James "The Trooper," and the third, John born 1679. The eldest son Daniel begat John who begat Daniel who begat John, born 1780, who was the father, among others, of Peter, whose son Thomas E. is the father of William E. W. MacKinlay, of Ottawa, Illinois, the Assistant Historian.

John, born 1679, the third son of the John born about 1645, was the father of John who was the father of John born 1748, who had, among others, Peter and Duncan, the former the father of John P. whose son, Hon. John F. McKinlay, is Treasurer of the Clan. Duncan was the father of Archibald, Chief of the Canadian Branches. The other children of John born 1748) are the ancestors of the Morpeth and Ridgetown, Ontario, families.

The Scottish branches, however, are comparatively easy to trace and it appears that James "The Trooper," second son of the John born about 1745, is the scurce of all our woes. This man went to Ireland and took part in the battle of the Boyne, fought July 1, 1690, acting as a guide to the victorious army of William III. Settling in Ireland, he is supposed to be the ancestor of a large proportion of the Irish McKinleys. So much for the general sketch at present. Taking up the emigrants to America, the oldest in point of years is given first and is the ancestor of your Historian. It is well to note these things first.

About 1760 a number of Scotch-Irish Presbyterians from Donegal, Ireland, settled in York, now Adams County, Penn. A glance at the map shows these Counties lying on the North of Frederick and Baltimore Counties, Maryland, out of which Carroll County has since been constructed. Part of these Scotch-Irish Presbyterians went South into the Maryland Counties before 1764. The following are not wholly identified.

WILLIAM MCKINLEY in Adams County, Penn. in 1741.

WILLIAM McKINLEY, Private 6th Reg. Maryland Arty. (Probably the Carroll County William, ancestor of Family V.)

JOHN McKinley in Frederick Co., Md. (from York), Nov. 1764.

James McGinley, in Frederick Co., Md. (from York), Nov. 1764.

John McKinley's Will proved in Frederick Co., Md. in 1767.

Benjamin McKinley, in Frederick Co., Md. (from York) in 1771.

Elizabeth McKinley, m John McGalvain, December 3, 1778 in Frederick Co., Md. Margaret McKinley, m Jacob Frizzle, February 28, 1780 in Frederick Co., Md.

FAMILY I.

JAMES MCKINLEY (1), born in Ireland in 1708, perhaps a son of James "The Trooper," came to America before Revolutionary war. Lived in Penn., Baltimore County, or Baltimore City, Md, Kentucky and Turtle Creek Tp., Warren County, Ohio. Was a Roman Catholic. Died at the home of Eleanor Wiles Goodwin, his great-granddaughter, in 1812. This man was possibly ancestor of Family III.

RODGER MCKINLEY (2), born in Ireland about 1733, married Eleanor (?) Shaw, sister to John Shaw (who had a family of 13 children). Lived in Penn, Baltimore, Kentucky and Warren County, Ohlo. John Shaw and family accompanied him. Was in Warren County in 1809 when his son-in-law's will, witnessed by John Shaw, was probated, but both Rodger and John Shaw and family then disappear completely.

John (5) was the father of Hon Wm. M McKinley, of Portland, Indiana, who is the father of Dr. Esdras Burns McKinley of Vaughnsville, Ohio.

David (6) is living at Bluffton, Ohio. This family claims relationship with Governor Mc-Kinley's family. The father of the two half brothers is said to have been James. The elder brother was born 1757. As noted below, a James McKinley had son David in 1755. Perhaps William and James of this family are younger brothers of David. Note, however, that David was born in America while William and James are thought to have been born in Donegal, Ireland.

FAMILY IIL

— McKinley (t) born probably about 1703-10 in the North of Ireland. His son James came to America at age of 12 with still younger brother William. Probabilities are that the parent accompanied in-schildren. Is he James McKinley b 1708 mentioned in family I, and was Rodger another of these children? or is he the William McKinley who was in York and Adams Counties, Penn. in 1741?

CHILDREN, so far as known.

JAMES McKINLEY (2) born about 1739, came from North of Ireland at age of 12, and settled in Penn. As his son David was born in 1755, James must have been born about 1730 and have come to America about 1742. Was he the father also of William born 1757 and of James mentioned next family above?

DR. ANDREW McKINLEY (2) lived in Culpepper County, Va., m Mary Logan. Was Surgeon in Revolutionary War. Removed to Lincoln County, Ky, and died in 1786. If Governor McKinley's family traditions are correct, then this man's father's name should be William, who came with James about 1742 from North of Ireland, instead of John, as his descendants have it. Both unite in saying that he had a brother James, whatever his own name was.

[This information, which comes while the pamphlet is in press, will probably prove of the greatest importance in connecting the Irish branches. Mr. Patrick McKinley, of FreeFort, Kansas, writes that he is the sixth generation from the McKinley who settled in Ireland from Scotland: that the immigrants landed at Fair Head, County Antrim, near Ballyeastle; that the Catholic branches clung to the names Patrick, James and John and the Pretestant branches were replete with Williams. Mr. McKinley will co-operate with your historian in securing immediately the data of these early generations. See also Family X.]

CONCLUSION.

The foregoing sketch shows plainly the unfinished condition of the work. It remains for the members of the clan to add to it promptly and accurately, correcting any errors. Please note also,

1st Full names, not initials, are asked for.

2nd. In filling out pedigree blanks remember that one page belongs to each person born "McKinley." That person's name should be written at the head of the page, followed by the first name of his or her father, grandfather, great grandfather, &c., as far as traceable. Do not forget this as it should appear on every sheet, or it will be simply impossible for me to arrange the pages properly. EXAMPLE: William McKinley (William, James, David, James).

There may be dozens of William McKinleys in existance, but there can be only one who is the son of William, grandson of James, great grandson of David, and great great grandson of James. Many have failed to observe this rule, and the result is confusion and extra postage.

3rd. The treasurer needs money to pay the printer's bill, a prompt remittance of dues will oblige him. By carefully attending to these three points you will greatly save the time and temper of your Treasurer and Historian.
